
From left to right: the one-space jump, the knight's move, the bamboo joint and the tiger's mouth.

```
\documentclass[border=0.5cm, varwidth=12cm]{standalone}
\usepackage{../../latex/pgf-go}

% Each shape is written once, from A1; shift = {columns, rows} draws it anywhere else.
\def\jump{A1, A3}
\def\knight{A1, B3}
\def\bamboo{A1:2, C1:2}
\def\tiger{A2, B1, C2}

\pgfgoset{profile = pgfgosmooth}

\begin{document}
    \begin{goban}[15x9, label = {at = south}]
        \stones[b, shift = {1, 5}]{\jump}
        \stones[b, shift = {4, 5}]{\knight}
        \stones[b, shift = {7, 5}]{\bamboo}
        \stones[b, shift = {11, 5}]{\tiger}
        \stones[w, shift = {1, 1}]{\jump}
        \stones[w, shift = {4, 1}]{\knight}
        \stones[w, shift = {7, 1}]{\bamboo}
        \stones[w, shift = {11, 1}]{\tiger}
    \end{goban}

    \smallskip
    From left to right: the one-space jump, the knight's move, the bamboo joint and the tiger's ↪ mouth.
\end{document}
```